FUTON CARE

Daily Care :

- If you leave your futon spread on the floor for a long time, moisture will be retained between the floor and futon. Make sure to fold and store futon every day. If your room does not have any storage and you have to place it in the corner of the room, make sure to keep some distance from the place you sleep. It is also important to ventilate your bed room.
- If you fold your futon right after you wake up, moisture and heat will be retained inside.
- If you have time, place your kakebuton turned over for 20 minutes before you fold it.
- If you don't have time to fold it every day, you can also use dehumidifier or a Sunoko-style (drainboard) mat under your shikibuton.

Regular Care :

Be sure not to expose a futon to the sun too much. Exposing a futon to the sun too much may lead to the deterioration of the futon fabric. So, it would be fine to dry the futon outdoors for 1 or 2 hours between 10 o'clock to 15 o'clock. Turn over a futon while drying it outdoors.
